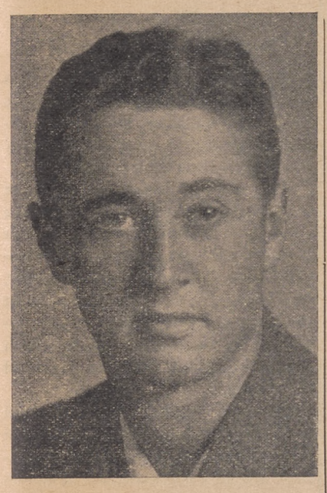
Senior Ball Couples Dance Tomorrow Night At Sir Francis Drake

Art Wiedener's Orchestra to Play In Empire Room from 10 P.M. to 2 A.M. Sunday; Several Tables Still Remain

To the music of Art Wiedener's society orchestra, Senior Ball couples will dance tomorrow night in the Empire room of the Hotel Sir Francis Drake in downtown San Francisco.

Dancing to Wiedener's nine-piece orchestra will commence at 10 o'clock and will continue until 2 a.m. Sunday, according to Ed Tracy, who was appointed chairman of the ball by Class President Warren Jenkins because of the absence of Phil Isham, original chairman.



Class President

Table reservations still are being taken, Tracy announced. Tables seating four couples still remain, and there are several tables seating three couples.

Because the senior ball is always the second and final Moraga formal dance of the spring semester, Jenkins and Tracy anticipate a social and financial success tomorrow night.

Bids may be obtained from a committee consisting of Gene McSweeney, Richard Hilken, Julian Lyons, Coleman Kezeli, Jack Madden, and Larry Minahen. The cost of each bid is $2.50.

Entertainment during the intermission will be furnished by a quartet.

Wiedener's orchestra has been rated the most popular among the society people of San Francisco and the peninsula, for whom the young maestro has played often during the past year. This is the first time Wiedener has played for a Saint Mary's dance, either sport, semi-formal, or formal.

There will be no favors, and, as has been the custom in former years, no corsages will be allowed.

Isham's Condition 'Slightly Improved'

Operation Still May Be Necessary, Report Los Angeles Dispatches

"Slightly improved" is the reported condition of Phil Isham, senior student manager of the Saint Mary's Phoenix, who was struck in the head by a foul ball in the first UCLA game last week at Westwood Village in Los Angeles.

No operation has been performed as yet, according to dispatches received here last night. Whether or not an operation will be necessary can not be determined at the present time.

Attending Isham is the medical staff of the University of Southern California and a Los Angeles brain specialist. Isham's parents last week rushed from their home in Flagstaff, Arizona, to Los Angeles, but this week Mrs. Isham returned to her home while Mr. Isham remained in Los Angeles near the Good Samaritan hospital where Phil is confined.

Isham was struck on the right side of his head in the second inning of the first game with the UCLA Bruins on Monday, April 18. Johnny Baida, Westwood outfielder, struck the ball which smacked Isham while he was keeping score in the Phoenix dugout.

On Isham's left was seated Coach Earl Sheely; on his right was Pitcher Al Andrade. The blow momentarily dazed him. Trainer Cliff Rose worked over him during the game. En route back to the Biltmore hotel, Isham became dizzy. At Coach Sheely's suggestion Isham was taken to the Good Samaritan, well known Los Angeles hospital.

Isham's condition has failed to improve rapidly, and within a few days it will be announced whether or not an operation will be necessary. He is a senior and was chairman of tomorrow's senior ball.

Spanish Instructor To Address Group Sunday at Scotia

"Lay Cooperation in Catholic Education" is the title of the lecture that Brother Bede Edward will give Sunday morning at a Holy Names Communion breakfast in Scotia, Calif.

Brother Bede Edward will be the guest of Father J. Fitzgerald at the annual breakfast.

Cottle Oratorical Contest Finals Held Last Night

Five students competed in the final round of the annual Cottle oratorical contest staged last evening, in De la Salle lounge, under direction of William Simon, forensic director.

Results of the contest were not available for this week's COLLEGIAN.

Debaters who competed for the gold award were William Bourne, Sullivan oratorical winner; Wyman Riley, former editor of the COLLEGIAN; Ed LaBerge, head yell leader; Bill Glackin, feature columnist of the COLLEGIAN; and Joseph Potstada, sophomore debater.

The award is a gold medal donated in honor of Reverend John E. Cottle, graduate of the Saint Mary's class of '77.

James Brady, vocalist, and George Dacres, provided entertainment for the evening.

Judges of the event were Francis Healy, district attorney of Contra Costa county; Brother Claudius of the college faculty, and John Garavanta, city attorney of Concord.

Officers Elected For 1938-39 Year By Pre-Med Club

Officers of the Pre-Med club for the 1938-39 year were elected yesterday. Clifford Rose, Oakland, was chosen president. Others named to office were Bill Henderson, vice-president, Ray Moffitt, secretary, and Conrad Catterlin, treasurer.

Willis Buck, former president, is the only member of the club graduating.

Debaters to Meet USF Tomorrow In Radio Encounter

Radio station KSFO will be the scene of a radio debate Saturday night at 5:30 between the University of San Francisco and Saint Mary's college.

Debaters Edward LaBerge and Joseph McCarthy will take the negative side of the question, "Resolved: That the cities of Alameda, Oakland, Berkeley, and parts of San Mateo should be incorporated with San Francisco."

John Downes of the University of San Francisco is arranging the debate.

Another debate will be held before the close of the term between Saint Mary's and San Quentin prison. Joseph Donnelly and John Williams, juniors, will visit the prison.

Saint Mary's Club To Hold Annual Outing Sunday

Football Game Will Feature Program Planned for Day

A full schedule of events has been completed for the annual spring outing of Saint Mary's club, to be held on the campus on Sunday, according to the announcement of Charles Pohley, president of the club.

Included among the day's events will be a Mass in the morning at which the Student Brothers choir will sing, a swimming meet, a punting contest for the James M. Smith trophy, a passing contest for the William J. Fitzgerald trophy, and the first public appearance of the newly formed boxing team which is coached by Eddie Erdelatz.

Full Length Game

Highlight of the day's program will be a full length preview football game between two varsity squads, the Reds and the Blues, in which the visitors will have the opportunity of seeing next year's varsity men in action.

Schedule of Events

9:20 Special leaves Ferry building.
10:20 Saint Mary's club special arrives at the college.
10:30 Mass in chapel.
11:15 Swimming meet at pool.
12:30 Boxing in Madigan gymnasium.
1:45 Punting and passing contests.
2:30 Football, Reds vs. Blues.
4:33 Saint Mary's club special leaves.

All facilities of the campus are to be thrown open to the club visitors, who will picnic in Justin grove. The co-op store and fountain will also be open throughout the day, and will sell lunches.

Joe McElligott is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the day and is assisted by the following members: Frank Austin, Charles Barry, Tim Daly, Tom Deasy, Danny Dee, Emmett Dillon, Nick Erdelatz, Joe Fitzgerald, Maurice Guy, Andy R. Johnson, Frank Kenneally, Hap Kennedy, Joe Kenny, Lloyd Kingsley, Stanley Lavell, Ronald MacDonald, Henry Maritzen, Dan Murphy, Mervin O'Day, Tom O'Leary, Jim Roney, Frank Schmidt, and Al Schomaker.

Trains will leave the San Francisco Ferry building at 9:20, 10:40, and 2:00, and will leave Oakland at 9:50, 11:10, and 2:30.

Blockmen Prepare For 'Suppressed Desire' Dance

Event to Take Place In Madigan Gym Saturday, May 8

Jack Kelly's orchestra augmented by local talent will be featured at the Block SM "Suppressed Desire" dance to be held on the evening of May 8 in Madigan gymnasium.

President Gene McSweeney has appointed several committees to make arrangements for the affair. The decorations are to be hendled by Denny Keran, William Bourne, Gene McSweeney, and Kenneth Meitz; Lavine Bettencourt, Bill Thomas, Harry Aronson, Joe Hurley, and Jerry Dowd will take care of advertisements; and Tom Feeney, Bill Bourne, and Mike Perrie will handle the tickets.

Election of officers for the coming year will be held on Monday at 12:20 in room D108. Requirements for presidential candidates call for one year's membership in the society. Members eligible for this office are Joseph Hurley, Kenneth Meitz, Al Andrade, and Gordon Laird. Offices of vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and timekeeper are open to all members of the organization.

Sophomores Elect August Gaspar to Junior Presidency

In a hotly contested race, August Gaspar, Oakland day scholar, was elected president of next year's junior class, Wednesday, beating his only opponent, Noel McDermott by two votes. Forty votes to 38 was the final tabulation.

Other officers elected were Pete Sedar over Dave Cunningham for the vice-presidency; Ed McLaughlin elected secretary defeating Cliff O'Connell, Edward English, and Ray Syufy.

Romolo Brusatti was unanimously elected treasurer, while Lavine Bettencourt was named sergeant-at-arms.

Executive Council representatives elected were Tom Feeney, William Spehar, and Joseph Potstada.

America's First College Council of YMI Formed

Saint Mary's Group Initiated by California Council

America's first college council of the Young Men's Institute, designated as Saint Mary's council number 87, was officially established Monday evening when YMI members from various parts of Northern California gathered on the campus to initiate new Saint Mary's members.

Ceremonies were held in Dante hall under the direction of Edward Cone '32 and Clarence Dowdall '35, who led the degree team from the California council of Alameda.

Charter Officers Installed

Charter officers of this newly formed council were also installed. They are: Edward Tracy, president; Thomas Feeney, first vice-president; Joseph Cone, second vice-president; Leo Englert, financial secretary; Robert Johnson, recording secretary; Noel McDermott, marshall; Robert Smith, outside sentinel, and Lawrence Webber, inside sentinel. Lionel Holmes, Lloyd Gallardo, and George Gillette were elected to the executive council.

Edward Burns, James Butler, Joseph Crosby, James Feeney, Marius Peterson, Joseph McEntorffer, Hugh O'Neill, William Palm, Thomas Twomey, are the charter members of the new college club.

Honorary Members

The honorary members are: Brother Albert, Brother Alfred, Brother James, Brother Paul, Brother Edward, Brother Patrick, Brother Henry, and Father Albert T. Duffy, chaplain. Frank Rodgers and James O'Donnell '89, became non-benefit members of the council. They had previously been members of another council.

Also attending were a large number of grand officers and grand directors. Visiting delegates came from councils in Sebastapol, Santa Clara, Santa Rosa, Pinole, Martinez, Crockett, San Bruno, Burlingame, Alameda, Berkeley, San Leandro, San Francisco, San Rafael, Pleasanton and other towns.

Telegrams of congratulations were received from other YMI as well as YLI councils and their officers.

Refreshments were served to the group in the students' dining hall.

Organization of Council

Birth of the new college organization came out of a series of meetings between William J. Murphy, grand president, Neil Guiney of Phil Sheridan Council and Thomas Twomey, assistant recorder, local sponsor.

This was followed by local sign-up gatherings, a dinner with the grand president and grand secretary, Dennis Lucey, on April 7, and then the official installation.

SFJC Newman Club Selects Justin Grove As Site of Picnic

Newman Club members of San Francisco Junior College will hold their annual picnic May 1 at Saint Mary's College, it was announced in a letter from that institution received during the week.

The letter, extended an invitation to Saint Mary's students to attend the affair.

Peace Delegates To Discuss World Affairs

Leading Bay Area Colleges to Be Represented Here

Dignitaries from leading universities and colleges on the coast will speak here tomorrow at the first convention of the Catholic Association for International Peace, sponsored by the associated students.

Mass in Saint Mary's chapel, with Father Joseph I. Manning, celebrant, will open the day, which will be concluded with benediction at 3:45 in the afternoon.

Many Representatives

The following schools will send faculty representatives to speak at the various seminars throughout the day on their respective subjects: Saint Mary's college, "The Natural Society of Nations," "The State: Its Limitations," and "A League of Nations"; University of Santa Clara, "The Ethics of War"; Stanford (Newman club), "Peace: Unity—International Law"; College of the Holy Names, "Peace: Agreement—Arbitration"; University of San Francisco, "The Church as Peacemaker"; California (Newman club), "The State: Its Rights."

Noon Hour Speech

Feature of the noon hour will be a welcome address by James L. Hagerty, professor of philosophy, and a speech by Dr. George Roche, of the Dominican college faculty.

John Henning heads a committee consisting of Lawrence Mana, student body president; Wyman Riley, John Reilley, William Bourne, Paul Alston, and Victor Wilkiemeyer.

Participants will include representatives of University of Santa Clara, University of San Francisco, College of the Holy Names, San Francisco College for Women, Dominical college of San Rafael, and Newman clubs from Stanford, California, San Francisco junior college, San Francisco state college, and Mills college.

Diamond Jubilee Edition of Gael to Appear Thursday

The Diamond Jubilee edition of the GAEL, Saint Mary's yearbook, will be on the campus newsstands Thursday, Editor John Sullivan predicted yesterday.

Heralded as perhaps the most outstanding edition of the annual since its establishment in 1928, the Gael will go on limited sale first to students who have made down-payments. A few books will be sold outright on advance order.

Scores of alumni and friends of the college are prepaid subscribers, but will not receive their copies in the mail until campus sales are complete, Sullivan said.

Staff of the Gael is Sullivan, editor; Bill Kirkham, associate editor; Joe Crosby, business manager; Bill Bettencourt, sports editor; Joe Cone, advertising manager.

Mission School Observes Annual Charter Day Rites

UNIVERSITY OF SANTA CLARA, April 29.—Opening with Solemn High Mass in the mission church in the morning, and climaxing with a Block SC show in the evening, charter day, held yesterday, set a new record in activity for the annual event.

The Mass, celebrated by President Louis Rudolph, S.J., was attended by the entire ROTC unit in uniform. The religious ceremonies were followed by a military review on Stanton field before Father Rudolph and other university officials.

An athletic program took up the afternoon, including track, softball, and golf. The banquet in the evening was concluded with presentation of awards by the university president and an address by a prominent alumnus. The variety show was staged in the theatre following the banquet.

Glackin, Kirkham, MacPhail, Sarment, and Cunningham Win; New Constitution Accepted

John L. Sullivan will succeed Lawrence Mana as president of the Associated Students of Saint Mary's for the 1938-39 academic year!

Shattering all campus pre-election predictions, the former Sacred Heart prepster of San Francisco ran away with the presidential race, beating his nearest rival, Leo Englert of Alameda, by 33 votes, 112 to 79.

William Glackin was elected vice-president; William Kirkham, secretary; Norman MacPhail, treasurer; George Dooley, intramural sports manager, and the new constitution was accepted.

Roy Sarment and Dave Cunningham were elected assistant yell leaders to Ernie Russo, varsity yell king. Sarment is a freshman, and Cunningham is a sophomore.

Joseph Hurley of San Francisco placed third in the presidential tabulations, receiving 64 votes. Alameda's John Williams polled 50 votes.

Vice-President Race Close

Glackin, a former Christian Brothers' student of Sacramento, won a close race from Joseph Cone of Oakland, 92 to 80. Ken Meitz of San Francisco was given 73 votes, while Herschel Smyth of Beowawe, Nevada, received 66.

Kirkham, who hails from Nevada City, California, defeated Robert Fletiz of Saint Mary's high, Berkeley, by 10 votes, 158 to 148.

MacPhail, ex-Commerce high, San Francisco, won by seven votes over his closest rival, James Moore of Saint Mary's high, Berkeley, 83 to 70. Dave Olsson of Martinez polled 70 votes, and William Bloodgood of Los Angeles, 61.

Dooley, unopposed, was given 250 votes. He hails from Ukiah.

Sarment Tops

Sarment polled 141 votes to lead all assistant yell leader candidates. Cunningham finished second with a total of 118. Dave Houser followed with 95; Lester Dole, 66; William Davie, 53, and Lawrence Moser, 42.

The new constitution was given an overwhelming vote of approval, 243 voting "yes" while only 36 placed a check after "no." The vote of approval was expected by present administration leaders, there having been no organized opposition to the new document.

Noted Historian To Speak Here

Dr. Kurt Reinhardt to Be Awarded Moraga Crest

Right Reverend Monsignor Peter Guilday, educator at the Catholic University of America, will deliver the 75th commencement address at the Saint Mary's graduation exercises on Sunday, May 15, on the campus.

Dr. Guilday is founder of the Catholic Historical review and is a member of the American Catholic Historical society, American History association, Catholic Record society of London, and the Fellow Royal Historical society.

At the graduation exercises, Dr. Guilday will receive an honorary degree from the College.

Crest to be Awarded

The Moraga Crest will be given to Dr. Kurt Reinhardt, professor of German literature at Stanford University, in recognition for his services in furthering the European tradition of culture on the Pacific Coast.

Another honorary degree will be given to Very Reverend Harold E. Ring, S.J., president of the University of San Francisco.

On Saturday morning, May 14, at the Saint Mary's Cathedral, will open the formal graduation exercises of the Diamond Jubilee class with the celebration of a pontifical Mass, with the Very Reverend John J. Mitty, D.D., archbishop of San Francisco, pontificating. The Mass will be celebrated in memory of the founder of the Brothers, Saint John Baptist de la Salle.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Reverend Richard J. Curtis, pastor of the Saint Mary of the Immacualte Conception Church, Los Gatos. Father Curtis is a member of the graduating class of '13.

Two Eastbay High School Editors Win Scholarships

Saint Mary's, Saint Elizabeth's High Men Are Victors

Editors of two Eastbay Catholic high school newspapers won journalism scholarships in competitive examinations in conjunction with the sixth annual press convention, the department of journalism announced yesterday.

Winners were Louis G. de Alva, associate editor of the Peraltan, Saint Mary's high, Berkeley, and George J. Farnham, editor of the Thuringian of Saint Elizabeth's high, Oakland. Both edited papers which held high ranking or were runnersup for awards. Besides winning the department of journalism plaque, the Thuringian holds national honors among mimeographed publications.

De Alva and Farnham were among 22 senior journalists from Bellarmine Prep, San Jose; Sacred Heart, San Francisco; and Saint Elizabeth's and Saint Mary's high schools who competed in the entrance examination, covering journalism, literature, mathematics, science and social studies.

The two, two-year, non-resident scholarships are effective next fall.

Faculty Lecture Series to End Sunday, May 8

The last of a series of talks, given by members of the faculty of Saint Mary's college on "The Meaning of Catholic Education," will be given by Brother Cyprian on May 8. His topic will be "Literature in Catholic Education."

RED - BLUE SQUADS CLASH SUNDAY

Gael Gossip

by Jim Brady, Collegian Sports Editor

THE 1939 edition of the Saint Mary's Phoenix should be somewhat better than this year's team, third-place winners in the CIBA. Coming up from the freshmen will be Earl Johnson, undefeated southpaw; Ken Sanders, .521 hitter who may play football instead; Ray Trand, a classy shortstop whose hitting may improve, and others.

Returning from this season's varsity will be Cy Greenlaw, Emmett O'Neill, Bud Merrill, Al Lingua, Al Andrade, Bill Murphy, Ken Butler, Glenn Sinnot, and perhaps Bing Miller.

These should round out a pretty fair team in any man's league. Maybe next year the pennant-starved Moragans will come through at last.

Two Freshman Portsiders

Quite a lot is going to be expected from two left-handed pitchers in the bay area next year, who this season played freshman ball.

They are Mike Koll of California and Earl Johnson, Saint Mary's.

Koll, a strike-out artist, whiffed as many as seventeen in one game, and in others he set down sixteen and twelve.

Johnson's strike-out mark stands at nineteen, and he won eight victories while losing none. In these eight games he fanned 103 would-be hitters.

In the one meeting between the two, Johnson came out on top by a one-run margin, but the issue was not really decided, as each allowed eight hits and struck out twelve.

Inactive Sophomores In Again

Those inactive sophomores, having won the interclass debating, basketball, boarders' pool championship, and more recently the unofficial baseball title, are challenging the rest of the school to a tennis tourney.

The members of the varsity, of course, will not be allowed to compete, keeping the meet on a strict intramural basis.

Captain Katzmeyer

It is about time that the second year men be given some recognition other than in these pages for the splendid work they are doing towards revitalizing interclass sports at Saint Mary's.

Strange as it may seem, the one man who is in back of these soph movements is a football player, who should have his hands full with that alone. He is Nick Katzmeyer, captain of the Klouters, as the baseball team is known, and first baseman for that outfit.

An Athletic Candidate

Two years ago he won the lightweight boxing championship of the school by defeating the highly favored Hi-Ho Kenny in a bruising battle.

Last year in the intramural track meet, he finished on top in the half mile, setting a new school record. Then he came back the same afternoon to emerge the victor in the mile, again making a new school mark.

At present he is the manager of the boxing team, which will put on a show in the near future, featuring the Gael squad against a combined team from the Olympic club and CYO.

A Maestro of the Mound

Genial Dick Hilken, portly left-handed curveball artist, missed his calling when he failed to turn out for varsity baseball.

He has pitched several brilliant games for the Roma Winery team of Lodi, and has shown a fine assortment of curves and fast balls in winning these contests.

Hilken will be seen in action here tomorrow morning against the hard-hitting sophomore nine, and will be opposed on the mound by Jack Sims. Don't miss this game.

Swimmers Into Action

Responding to last week's blast, the swimming team scheduled several meets, the first being with a Berkeley team.

Hampered by the non-appearance of several important team members, the Gaels took another defeat, 38-26.

Factors which do not meet the eye at first with regard to this defeat are the condition of the swimmers due to lack of practice, and the lack of a coach, both of which the opponents possessed.

When the idea of a swimming squad was suggested, an enthusiastic turnout resulted, and at the first meet, with the Athens club, about half of these showed up.

Now at the second meet, right here on the campus, some few more were missing at the time it was scheduled to start.

No team can expect to exist without cooperation on the part of its members.

Items

Stanford's Harry Wolters picked Al Lingua and Cy Greenlaw on his all-coast baseball team, but omitted Bing Miller.

Rumor says that Eddie Erdelatz will coach the frosh gridders next year.

Highly embarrassed were Glenn Sinnot and Gabby Stolich upon their arrival from the southland. They discovered that they had left their suitcases on the train.

The reason for the apparent disinterest in swimming one day last week was the presence on the surface of the pool of a deceased field mouse, which evidently came with the hay for the frosh barn dance.

GAELS LOSE LAST GAME TO TROJANS

Sixth Inning Uprising Defeats Phoenix Nine; Webber Smacks 3

Dropping the season's finale to the USC Trojans, 9 to 6, in Los Angeles last Friday, the Phoenix ended their baseball season in third place in the CIBA.

Besides losing the contest, the Gaels lost the rubber match in the three-game series. This defeat gave the Phoenix 10 league wins against 5 losses.

Cy Greenlaw started on the mound and was effective in the pinches until the fifth inning, when USC scored three runs.

Gaels Hit Brewer

However, the Gaels continually were hitting Brewer, the Trojan pitcher, and went into the sixth inning leading 5 to 3. At this point USC shelled Greenlaw off the mound and before O'Neill could retire the side five runs were across the plate.

From then on, the Gaels put men on the bases, but couldn't bat them in. Both teams scored again with USC adding the last tally in the ninth.

USC's rallies were sparked by the hitting of Hal Seiling, shortstop, who batted 3 for 5, and Art Lilly, second baseman, and Jack Hanson, utfielder, who clouted 2 hits apiece.

For Saint Mary's, Larry Webber garnered three hits, while Boehle and Sullivan cracked out 2 hits each.

Andrade Finishes Game

Ken Butler batted for O'Neill in the eighth and Andrade finished the pitching chores. The starting pitchers for each team were not in the best of shape, for Brewer pitched fresh from a sick bed and Greenlaw's arm and back did not respond fully to medical treatment.

Freshmen Conclude Season With 17-13 Win Over CBS Nine

Ending a highly successful season, dropping only one game in their entire schedule, last Saturday the Saint Mary's freshmen swamped the Christian Brothers high school from Sacramento, 17-3.

Ken Sanders proved the season's slugger of the Gaelets, finishing with an average of .521.

Earle Johnson, ace pitcher of the frosh, chalked up eight victories in as many starts, and made an enviable record in these eight games of 103 strike-outs, which averages almost 13 strike-outs per game.

The frosh won their annual series both with California and Santa Clara freshmen, taking two straight in each series.

Purdue All-U. S. Gridder Visits Moraga Campus

On the campus last week was John Drake of Purdue, All-American gridder who is slated to play with the Chicago Bears professional team this year.

The purpose of his visit was to interview Lou Ferry, former Gael quarterback, and to watch him in action on the gridiron.

It is rumored that Ferry will be offered a contract with the Bears for next season, although there is nothing to substantiate this rumor.

New Date Set For Boxing Meet

Saint Mary's vs. Olympic Club And CYO May 5

Saint Mary's will hold their first boxing smoker next Thursday night in Madigan gym, according to Jack Williams, manager of the boxing team.

Williams announced that there will be ten bouts, each lasting three rounds of two minutes. The admission for the affair will be 25 cents.

Those who are expected to fight are Mike Perrie, Coley Vaughn, and George Cantwell, as heavyweights; Joe McGrath and Jim Feeney as light-heavyweights; Henry Neutzel, middleweight; Jack Williams and Bob Smith as welterweights, and Steve Stregar and George Duganz as lightweights.

Tom McLaughlin of the CYO and Spider Roach of the Olympic club are supplying the boxers for the bouts.

Due to a strike at the Olympic club last week, the meet was postponed from last Wednesday night.

During the extra time allowed, the Gael fisticuffers have been working out, and tapering off in training for the matches.

Favored to win for Saint Mary's are Joe McGrath and Williams, both former titleholders in amateur circles.

Coach Eddie Erdelatz is optimistic about the revival of the gloved sport at Moraga, and, although he feels that this is the wrong time of the year to get under way, it is necessary if the interest is to be sustained in boxing next year.

Not since the days of Joe Lang, Saint Mary's Olympic boxer, has there been such interest here on the campus.

Gael Netters Finish Season At Santa Clara

Concluding a rather unsuccessful season, the Saint Mary's tennis team traveled to Santa Clara today for a match with the Broncs. This will be the last match on the Gael schedule.

Local courts were the scene of the match played between the University of San Francisco and Saint Mary's, yesterday, the results of which were not available before the COLLEGIAN went to press.

The Gael netmen have been unable to break into the win column all season, although some exceptionally hard matches have been played.

Walt Webber, Harry Hooper, Georgie McPeake, Bud Namammy, Toko Taira, Ed Murphy, and Bill Davie all return next year, and a better season is in prospect.

Freshman golfers will aid the team materially in 1938-9, combining with the experienced members to put a better Gael team into the field.

Many Track, Field Eligibles for Next Year

In the event of a revival of track next year at Saint Mary's, there will be plenty of talent available for the various events.

Track Manager George Carter has prepared a list of eligibles that can give better than fair performances both on the cinderpath and in the field.

These men will form the nucleus of a track team, or if there is no track squad, will be seen in action at the intramural meet.

100 yards—Al Lingua.

220 yards—Al Lingua.

440 yards—George Carter and Joe Aguirre.

880 yards—Jack Williams, Charles Carroll.

Mile—Jack Williams, Charles Carroll.

Broad Jump—Al Lingua.

High Jump—Romolo Brusati.

Javelin—Harry Hooper, Ralph Jack.

Discus—George Cantwell, Lavine Bettencourt.

Shot Put—Andy Marefas.

FOOTBALL GAMES FEATURES SAINT MARY'S CLUB DAY

Gaels Do Spring Galloping In Annual Big Brother Contest

A preview of the 1938 edition of Slip Madigan's Galloping Gaels! This is the outstanding attraction that will be afforded observers and fans on Sunday, May 1, when the Saint Mary's Club stages its annual "Big Brother Game." This contest officially closes the spring practice session for the gridders.

Abolishing the idea of using coaches for each team like he has done in the past, Slip Madigan has announced that he will have a captain for each team. Jerry Dowd, veteran center, and Mike Perrie, veteran quarterback, have been named to lead the two opposing squads. Dowd will head the Reds, while Perrie leads the Blues.

Cal Plays to Be Used

The Moraga Mentor has put the first team with the third, and the second with the fourth in order to balance up the two squads. One team will use California's style of play, while the other will stick with the Notre Dame system.

Attention will center on the debut of Mike Klotovich, frosh star, who has been manning the left halfback position during spring practice sessions, and who fits in perfectly with the Notre Dame style of play which calls for a triple-threat left half. Klotovich is an accurate passer, a tricky runner, and a long distance punter. Last fall he led the frosh team in scoring, and has a bright future in store for him.

Others Will Bear Watching

Other freshmen breaking into the lineup will command a lot of interest as they are counted on to plug gaps in the line and backfield. Dick Mesak, Mike Mazaika, Ed Heffernan, Dick Jones, Joe Aquirre, Jack Guthrie, Ray Ruddell, and Andy Marefos are newcomers who will bear watching.

The Reds will have a lineup largely composed of veterans from last season. At the center spot will be Dowd, captain and ace punter. In the starting positions at ends will be Primo Brusati and Lavine Bettencourt, sophomore lettermen. Tackle slots will be filled by Nick Katzmeyer, veteran, and Marius Peterson, a sophomore with experience.

Blues Lineup Set

In the tackle posts will be Dick Jones, transfer, and George Cantwell, junior veteran, while Jack Crampton, sophomore, and Joe Aquirre, freshman, will hold down the flank positions.

There are many others who will see action, and a new star may be uncovered during the contest.

Other Attractions Listed

"May Day in Moraga" will also feature other events. A passing contest for the William J. Fitzgerald trophy, a punting contest for the James M. Smith trophy, and a swimming meet are other attractions listed for the celebration.

The Saint Mary's Club, which is an organization of men who have never attended the college but are loyal to it, has a very attractive program scheduled. This is the third year that they have sponsored this day.

Admission to the game will be 40c for non-students, and the game will start at 2:30 in the afternoon.

Katzmeyer's Hitting Leads Way to Smashing Triumph

Displaying a hearty gusto for runs and base hits, Katzmeyer's Sophomore Klouters routed Simon's Sluggers, Freshman stalwarts, 14 to 4 last Saturday morning on the Phoenix field.

Held to five hits by Jack Sims, the frosh performers were unable to make an impressive showing despite the fact that they were pre-game favorites. Captain Gordon Simon sent his star hurler, Jack Hatchett, to the mound to start the game. His stay in the box was terminated in the last half of the fourth inning when Ed Heffernan ascended the hillock.

Heffernan finished the game and showed flashes of brilliant pitching form at times throughout the last three innings. He also connected for a homer with the bags empty. Paul Dennison, hard-working catcher, was the battery mate for these two moundsmen.

Katzmeyer Leads Onslaught

Following the example of their captain and star slugger, Nick Katzmeyer, who collected a homer, triple, double, and single in five trips to the plate, the Klouters combed the opposing pitchers for twenty hits, ten of these going for extra bases. The victors bunched their hits and scored most of their runs in the third and fourth innings from the offerings of Hatchett.

In addition to pitching five-hit ball, Sims also clouted a homer and a double. Bettencourt, Matthews, O'Laughlin, Burns, and Doyle all collected two hits.

Comic relief for the spectators was provided by the two captains. Credit for Katzmeyer's homer must be given to the tall grass in left field which hid the ball, for Nick had to stop on third base for a rest before continuing home. Gordon Simon's tantalizingly slow and looping throws to first were responsible for several of the opposition's base hits.

Seniors Challenge Victors

At the conclusion of the game, Don Miller extended to the victorious Sophs a challenge to play his Senior nine for the unofficial championship. The contest is slated for tomorrow morning at nine o'clock. Miller predicts that his team will score an upset victory.

Phoenix Win From SD Marines

After losing two heartbreakers to the USC Trojans, the Saint Mary's Phoenix traveled to San Diego, and regained their batting eyes to defeat the Marines easily by a score of 9 to 3.

Bud Merrill on the mound for the Phoenix had the Marines under control at all times, and allowed them but eight scattered hits. The big guns in the Saint Mary's batting attack were Bing Miller, with three hits out of three trips to the plate, and Marion Stolich, with three out of six.

The battery for the Marines was Bailey and Donnelly. Madden and Weldon of the Marines each found Merrill's slants for two hits each, but Merrill bore down in the pinches with his fast ball to nullify the Marines big guns.

SHADOWING the GAELS

By Tom Feeney, Ass't. Sports Ed.

Reds vs. Blues!

The Saint Mary's Club Big Brother Game!

A boost, and a big one too, should be handed this organization of spirited Gael supporters for the great work they are doing.

They have established the name of "an active club which knows how to do things."

Sophs Makes Debut!

Critics are whittling gems of wit from their heads in order to cast light on Gael weaknesses. However, though there is little doubt, but that there will be some (perhaps many), these can be accountable to the huge number of up-and-coming sophomores.

The questions this game will decide for Gael followers are:

Will the line be stronger than last year?

How well will the key spot, left half, be manned?

Is there much reserve strength?

And how will next year's sophomores fill the vacancies?

All Opponent Team!

The Phoenix this week selected their all-opponent team for the season:

Priest (P) —Calif.
Brewer (P) —USC.
Petrushkin (P) —USC.
Lombardi (C) —Calif.
Gray (1st) —UCLA.
Lilly (2nd) —USC.
Washington (3rd) —UCLA.
Sieling (S) —USC.
Winterbottom (LF) —Calif.
De Vaurs (CF) —Calif.
Hanson (RF) —USC.

Standouts . . .

Undisputed crown-holders of the mythical freshman league, the Gaelet baseballers completed their season with 14 victories and but one loss.

Consecutive victories over the California Cubs 4 to 3 and 3 to 1 give them top-honors in the Bay area. Too, in their little Big Game series with the Santa Clara Colts they swept the series 12 to 3 and 2 to 1.

Ace of the squad is Earl Johnson, elongated southpaw, who is being counted on in next year's race for the CIBA crown.

Ken Sanders, gangling centerfielders led the stc kiewrsIPhrdl shrdltaohrdl led the stickers with an average of .????. He might be moved to first base next year.

The other two of note are Ray Trand, shortstop, and Bill Wright, who probably will play the outfield next season.

Much is expected of these swatsmen next year!

The Black Scourge!!

Slip is toying with the idea of garbing the Galloping Gaels next season in solid BLACK AIRPLANE SILK—including leg socks, pants and jerseys:

Topping this off will be gold helmets and shiny gold sweat socks.

Watch out for the Midnight Marauders who if they shine their shoes will be the gridiron version of Boris Karloff's latest spook cinema!

Please Inform Us . . .

A substantial reward (probably a MARY-GOLD) will be given to anyone offering information on the whereabouts of our H. H. Dykes, casaba mentor.

He is tabbed the "silver general of the court" and when last seen was wearing a black suit and gray overcoat. Helpful Statistics: Weight: 67 lbs. dripping wet; height: 5 ft. 8 inches; sallow complexion and sports a Menjou moustache.

One Unexpected Burn-up

Imagine the ex-B. B. shooter's face when he came out of his shower in the Biltmore Hotel rubbing his tousled locks and found a feathered beauty in his room.

It seems that there was a mix-up in the reservations. Her name was BELLE BETTENCOURT and of all things she is an ostrich-plume dancer.

What three Soph Phoenix members are love sick for the dear old Southland and, of course, three USC gals in particular?

The Associated Oil Company initiated its first college baseball broadcast last Saturday when it aired the Bear-Indian game. We hope next year they will broadcast more tilts, particularly the crucial contests.

Lingua Heads Phoenix Batters

Miller, Sullivan Among Varsity Heavy Hitters

Winding up the season with an invasion of the southland, the Phoenix won five games and dropped a pair to USC.

The team as a whole hit hard down south, as attested by the 20 runs in the first Bruin game. Almost the entire team hit well above the .300 mark, Al Lingua and Doc Desimone leading, each with .375.

Closely trailing the leaders were Bing Miller, Gene Sullivan, and Kenny Butler, with averages of .360, .353, and .352 respectively.

With new men coming up from the frosh to replace the graduating members of the varsity, it is expected that the Phoenix will again be among the leaders in the CIBA flag race next year.

The Phoenix batting averages, complete for the season, follow:

	AB	R	H	Ave
Lingua, c	48	8	18	.375
Desimone, ss	16	3	6	.375
Miller, 2b	104	19	37	.360
Sullivan, cf	97	17	35	.353
Butler, rf	51	19	18	.352

Swimmers Lose Second Meet

Greatly encouraged by their success in a recent meet, the Saint Mary's swimming team has been holding daily practices in preparation for a tentative meet with the Broncos of Santa Clara.

Featured by several outstanding performances by both Berkeley and Saint Mary's swimming teams, the meet held Monday in the local pool was won by Berkeley by a score of 36 to 28.

Although the swimming meets were not held as regularly as expected, prospects for next year, according to Dan O'Neill, swimming manager, are plentiful, and a great season is in view.

Blocks and awards for the past year will be distributed at a student body meeting Wednesday at 11 a.m. in D201.

Brother Albert, president of the college, will speak.

Sophs Play Seniors Championship For Unofficial

Fresh from their triumph over the frosh nine the sophomore baseball team will meet the seniors tomorrow morning on Agnon field.

Probable batteries for the sophs will be Jack Sims and Leo Doyle.

For the seniors, southpaw Dick Hilken will throw and John Saunders will probably receive.

The fine pitching and hitting of the second year men will establish them as pre-game favorite to win the unofficial college championship.

Freshmen Gridders Battle for First String Berths

Next year's Galloping Gaels will have a complete set of first-class gridders coming up from the freshman team.

The left halfback position will see two of the frosh battling for first-string positions; Mike Klotovich and Ed Heffernan, both fine kickers, passers, and runners.

In the line, the husky Dick Jones at tackle, Ray Ruddell at guard, Dick Mesak at guard, and many others including Brown, Dallman, Aguirre, Hartnyk, McGrath, Martinelli, Bonsignori, Consiglieri, will gave the veterans a fight for starting honors.

Besides Klotovich and Heffernan in the backfield there are Ferrier, Mazaika, Guthrie, Hatchett, and Marefos showing up well in the daily practice sessions.

Most of these will be seen in action Sunday on the Moraga football field, in the annual intra-squad Red-Blue game, sponsored by the Saint Mary's club.

And many of them will see plenty of action next season on the gridiron, fighting for national honors.

Frosh Day Dogs Lose Again

Playing under the name of the Saints, the freshman day dogs basketball team were defeated by the Albany YMCA cagers in a game played on the Oakland high school gymnasium court during the Easter recess.

Leading 16-15 at half time intermission, the Saints were unable to cope with the speed of the YMCA cagers in the second half and they were beaten in the waning moments of the game, 35 to 32.

Douglas Sweeney captured high point honors for the evening by tallying 13 points, followed by Bob Johnson, Lloyd Gallardo, James J. Murphy Jr., and Pat Horan, who made 4 points each.

Larry Ragno, high scorer of the frosh, was unable to be present for the game.

Another game was played Wednesday but details are still lacking concerning the game.

Bears Lead in Conference Chase

Have Top Position In CIBA; Trojans Threaten Leaders

With the California Intercollegiate Baseball association practically finished, California holds the undisputed lead with 12 wins and 3 losses, while USC still has a chance and threatens to tie the leader if they win their next two encounters with the UCLA Bruins.

The Saint Mary's Phoenix finished in third place. The Gaels sustained defeats twice at the hands of California and USC, and dropped a close battle to Stanford, 6-5.

The Phoenix losing three games early in the season were definitely out of the running. However, after the second California loss, they staged a late season rally, winning six consecutive conference games, being barely nosed out by Troy in the last two southern games.

These last two were heartbreaking losses, the second game being lost after the Phoenix held a five-run lead in the second inning. In all their defeats, the Saint Mary's varsity led the eventual victors at some stage of the game.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Ave.
California	12	3	.800
USC	10	3	.769
Saint Mary's	10	5	.666
UCLA	7	6	.538
Stanford	4	11	.266
Santa Clara	1	14	.066

COLLEGIAN ALL - STAR TEAM SELECTED

Selection of an all conference baseball team in the CIBA by the COLLEGIAN staff was made yesterday. Although there were a few disputed positions, it was felt that most of the players were outstanding. Chapman of the Bears and Hanson of the Trojans received many votes in the outfield, while Murdock and Lilly of USC were prominently mentioned in the infield.

The all conference team follows:

Pitcher—Priest, California
Pitcher—Brewer, USC
Pitcher—Greenlaw, Saint Mary's
Catcher—Lingua, Saint Mary's
First Base—Gray, USC
Second Base—Miller, Saint Mary's
Third Base—Washington, UCLA
Shortstop—Seiling, USC
Center Field—Devaurs, California
Right Field—Carter, UCLA

Honorable mention: Coffis, Stanford; Changala, Santa Clara; Sullivan, Saint Mary's; Martell, UCLA; Sinnot, Saint Mary's; Winterbottom, California; Lombardi, California; Engle, USC; Lazzarone, Stanford; Petrushkin, USC; Roche, Santa Clara.

Gaelet Nine Wins Finale

Saint Mary's freshmen baseball team closed their 1938 season by defeating the Christian Brothers nine from Sacramento 17 to 3 here last Saturday.

The leading hitters for the afternoon were Frank Bodisilich, who got three hits at four times at bat, and Earl Johnson, who received two for two. Ken Saunders was credited with a triple, while Bodisilich and Johnson also collected one apiece.

The Score:	R.	H.	E.
Saint Mary's	17	14	2
Christian Brothers	3	4	2

Batteries — Johnson and Bodisilich; Vacca, Morilli, and Aneghaism.

Varsity Takes Twin Bill in San Diego

O'Neil, Greenlaw Hurl Masterful Games at Border City Field

In the first game of a double-header played at Lane field, the Phoenix defeated San Diego State by a score of 6 to 3.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Emmett O'Neil, sophomore right-hander. O'Neil had everything on the ball, holding San Diego State to 4 hits and striking out 8 batters.

The Phoenix had a big second inning in which they scored five runs due to the wildness of State's pitcher, Barlord, and some faulty fielding by Garding at third. Barlord pitched good ball in every inning but the second. He held the Phoenix to but 4 hits, but they were all with men on the bases.

Butler and Miller Hit

Lefton was the only man on either team to hit more than once, and he found O'Neil's slants for two of State's 4 safeties. Butler and Miller hit doubles for the Phoenix.

Win Second Game

In the second game, also played at Lane field in San Diego, the Saint Mary's Phoenix defeated the Marines by a score of 6 to 1.

The battery for the Phoenix was Greenlaw and Lingua, and for the Marines Videl, Calloway and Donnelly.

Greenlaw pitched airtight ball allowing but three hits. Videk pitched well until he developed a sore arm in the fifth inning and was relieved by Calloway.

Bay Area Papers Take All Honors At Press Meet

Bellarmine Prep and Presentation Academy Win First Places

Results of the sixth annual press convention held on the campus Saturday show that five Catholic high school newspapers in the San Francisco archdiocese emerged with honors in the state-wide competition.

Winners of the first and second places in the boys' division were The Cardinal, Bellarmine prep, San Jose, and The Tatler of Saint James high, San Francisco. Joe Chargin is editor of the Cardinal while Kenneth Murphy edited the second-place winner in this division. The Reflector, Academy of Presentation, San Francisco, Mary Jane Noonan, editor, took first place in the girls' division. Second place honors went to The Megaphone of Immaculate Conception academy, San Francisco, edited by Nita Bogisich.

The Thuringian, edited by George Farnham of Saint Elizabeth's high, Oakland, won the first-place award in the mimeographed division. Many entries were included in this division.

Leading Journalist Named

The honor of being named the leading Catholic high school journalist for the year 1937-38 was won by Miss Bogisich of the Megaphone for her editorials on the Church's stand in social justice and the labor problem.

Twenty-two boy journalists competed in an examination for scholarships in the newly established department of journalism.

Speakers during the all-day sessions were Donald E. Cruzan, state editor, Oakland Tribune; Bob Stevens, prep school sports writer, San Francisco Chronicle; Louise Landis, feature editor of the National Broadcasting company press bureau; and Osborn T. Buck, bureau manager of Associated Press Wirephoto.

135 Attend Session

Round table discussions on problems in high school journalism were conducted by staff members of the Saint Mary's COLLEGIAN, co-sponsor of the convention with the department of journalism. Approximately 135 journalists and their moderators attended the sessions.

Judges in newspaper competition were Brother Cyprian, moderator of publications; Havelock Hunter, publicity director; Alvin Quittman, COLLEGIAN editor, 1938-39; Wyman Riley, COLLEGIAN editor, 1937-38, and Kenneth Coveney, former COLLEGIAN associate editor.

Newspapers represented were The Tatler, Cardinal, Megaphone, and Reflector, winners and runners-up; Shield, Saint Rose academy; Blue and White, Sacred Heart; Serran Shadows, Convent of Notre Dame of San Francisco; Thuringian of Oakland; Peraltan, Saint Mary's, and Academy News, Saint Joseph's, and CBS News, Christian Brothers, Sacramento; Crusader, Mount Carmel; Chimes, Cathedral high, and Clarion, Sacred Heart, Los Angeles; and Prep Times, Villanova, Ojai, Ventura county.

Trophies awarded were, first place, Department of Journalism trophy; Saint Mary's Plaque, second place in boys' division; L. G. Balfour trophy, first place in girls' division; James J. Gillick plaque, runner-up in girls' division; Department of Journalism plaque for best mimeographed paper; and the Julia Twomey trophy for the outstanding individual journalist.

Four Santa Clarans Attempt to Win Coolidge Medal

UNIVERSITY OF SANTA CLARA, April 29.—Four Santa Clara law men, Bill Harp, Francis Cronin, Marvin Joseph, and Richard Morton, were the principals in the fifth annual Coolidge competition on Tuesday evening in the Seifert lounge.

The contest, a public moot court affair sponsored annually by the law school, established in honor of Clarence Coolidge, dean emeritus of the college, and the issue this year involved an action dealing with a stock sale in violation of the securities and exchange act.

Winning counsel received the coveted Coolidge medals.

Wells-Fargo Dance Sponsored by Frosh Is Financial Success

Except for a few cases of hay fever, the freshman Wells-Fargo dance held Saturday in Madigan gymnasium was pronounced as highly successful and the wolf no longer howls at the class door.

The standing debt of $60 was erased and $46 reposes in the class treasury.

Bales of hay and several farm implements donated by local farmers assured a colorful affair. The fear of going further into debt was banished by the offer of Jack Kelly to donate the services of his nine-piece orchestra in case the dance did not clear the required amount.

The large attendance, however, warranted payment for his services. Robert Johnson, proprietor of Robert's Press, printed tickets and announcements free of charge.

A freshman meeting was held Wednesday to collect money and tickets from salesmen. Robert Skibinski, class president, and Carl Kaiser, handled distribution of tickts.

Faculty Advisers, Teachers, Gather on Campus

To Discuss Problems of Guidance to High School Students

Saint Mary's will be the host of the spring convention of the Northern California Guidance Association on Saturday, May 7, it was announced by the registrar's office yesterday.

More than 125 teachers who are principals and faculty advisers in public schools in the northern district, will attend the sessions to discuss problems of guidance to high school seniors entering business or college.

The conclave will begin with registration in the student lounge at 9:30 a.m.

Principal Speakers

Principal speakers at the general assembly will be Peter D. Kristick, manager of the California State Employment Service; Dr. R. E. Rutledge, principal of the Merritt Business School and Mr. Merle McGinnis, superintendent of guidance, placement and personnel in the Berkeley school department. Theme of their talks will be: "Occupational Trends and Outlooks for Placement."

Two films on job-hunting for the high school graduate will be shown in Dante hall, room 201. The films will be supplied by the Oakland Public Schools and the University of California extension division.

Luncheon Served

Luncheon will be served in the student dining hall at 12:30 p.m. Dr. George A. Rice, principal of University High School, Oakland, and president of the association will be toastmaster.

Visual education, placement and records will form discussions for section meetings during the day in charge of Dr. Rice and Miss Alice Hoyt, assistant dean of women at the University of California.

The autumn meeting of the association was held last year on the Mills College campus.

Saint Mary's Oldest Living Graduate Sends Greetings to Alumni and Students

April 19, 1938.

Reverend Brother Albert, President,
Saint Mary's. Palace Hotel, San Francisco.

To Saint Mary's men from 1868 to 1938, I send greetings through Brother Albert, the president of Saint Mary's college, on the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding:

If I were able I would be with you tonight, but I am forbidden by my doctor to attend any public gatherings, and besides I am suffering from a disease to which I have given the name of "Vocabulary Amnesia." My not being with you is my loss, not yours.

In 1862, being eight years old, holding my father's hand, on a Sunday afternoon, I walked from the old Willows Gardens, on the corner of Valencia and Seventeenth streets, the terminus of San Francisco's first steam railroad, out Mission street to the site of Saint Mary's college, opposite Reising's Four Mile House on the old San Jose road, to witness the laying of its cornerstone by the first Archbishop of San Francisco, the Most Reverend Joseph Sadoc Alemany, one of the holiest and most saintly of men that God has given me the honor and the pleasure of knowing. I particularly recollect the afternoon, because the weather was unusually foggy and the wind strong, a typical Saint Mary's afternoon as I came to know later on.

From that Sunday afternoon until today in my eighty-fourth year, my life has been more or less interwoven with that of Saint Mary's, and very greatly to my welfare and advantage. It was a mother to me, as every Catholic college should be to its students and especially to its alumni. In 1868 I was sent to Saint Mary's as a boarder (there were quite a number of day scholars in those days) and there I stayed until I graduated in 1873. It was a college for poor men's sons, has been ever since, and I hope it will continue to be, on account of the high standing and the many successes of its alumni as priests of the Catholic Church and as American citizens.

Poor Man's College

Of the original Christian Brothers who took over the college from Archbishop Alemany, I knew but seven. The eighth went back to civil life and afterwards became mayor of New York, and I believe, during his term of office, died by assassination. They were a great body of men, from the purveyor to the president, Brother Justin. But the president was the greatest. Highly educated, alert, quick as a flash, immensely popular (I never heard an unkind word about him) with a great and open diplomacy, he brought Saint Mary's to the front as a leading Catholic and scholastic institution. His portrait now hangs on the wall facing my bed and has from the time it was taken forty years ago. I mention this to show how I loved him and still do. Whatever success I have had in life and whatever Catholicity permeates my brain (I hope it overflows with it) I owe to him and God. This is the first public opportunity I have ever had of giving expression to my heartfelt feelings and I gladly take advantage of it. It is no belittlement of any Brother to say it. They are a great body of men, who give up their lives to one of the finest services that can be rendered to their God, the education of youth, to believe in Him, to serve Him, and to make their way in the world as honest and self respecting citizens.

Famous Men

There are two other men in my college days whose memory remains green. One, Brother Thomas, a brother of Dr. Kane, a famous physician and surgeon of San Francisco in the 80's and 90's. All that is necessary to say of him is that he will likely some day be canonized. I was in his ethics class. If ever I do wrong I know it. He prevented any quibbling on the part of my conscience. I do not know what invincible ignorance is.

The other, Father William A. Gleeson, Latin professor and author of two books now out of print and much in demand, "The Catholic Missions in California," and "The Trials of the Church." He later became, I think, first pastor of Saint Anthony's Church in East Oakland, to be succeeded after his death by Father Yorke.

When I look back over the years to my school days, when I read the roll of the priests of God, many of them great, all of them loved, and the roll of the laymen who have become distinguished in the professions and the different walks of life, as American citizens, I wonder how one small college made this great contribution to the public good.

Saint Mary's college must not die. We know that it is financially ill, but it is not a mortal sickness. It is in a way a purification disease, as a cleansing of the human system is occasionally necessary so are all the institutions built by man. Let us get together and restore it to health. If we act as a unit the disease is cured.

The small college is the life of the nation, the large college or university its ornament. If our republic is to be saved, and it is a question as to whether or not it is wobbling, with communism and fascism waiting to give it a push if the opportunity presents itself, the small college of the size and the type of Saint Mary's, with its curricula of religion and education, where the mass of the proletariat youth is properly educated, is the greatest bulwark against the enemy who, it is to be hoped, are still outside the walls.

In conclusion. This is the first and likely will be the last chance that I may have to thank publicly the faculty and the alumni of Saint Mary's, its students, its old boys (I know of only one living who was with me in college, Henry Deering of Eureka) its middle aged and its youngsters, for all the honors you have bestowed on me, the first presidency of the alumni, the Moraga Crest, etc. I thank you with all my heart and I hope the day will soon come when its students will number a thousand, no more, because this was the limit set by Brother Leo and myself five years ago, at which figure it will then have reached its apotheosis—California's greatest small college. What do you say?

Affectionately,
BARTLEY OLIVER '73.

Ex-Council Sponsors Raffle; Members Win Three Bids

Three out of five was the mark set by the executive council when the raffle for bids to the senior ball was held yesterday in the college dining hall.

Sponsored by the executive council and the APGU, the event was for the benefit of the Brick Pile, student magazine.

Members of the executive council winning bids to the ball were William Spehar, sophomore representative and COLLEGIAN writer; Lawrence Mana, ASSMC president, and Alvin Quittman, junior representative and COLLEGIAN editor.

The two remaining bids to the ball were won by Dick Hester, junior day student, and Miss Aileen Conway of San Francisco.

Tickets were drawn by John Williams, vice-president of the APGU, with Brother Patrick, dean of resident students, announcing the winners.

Local Students Make Tour of Bay Area Art Exhibitions

Various art collections throughout the bay area were examined last week in an excursion of art students, headed by Brother Cornelius, noted art director.

Works of the late Douglas Tilden at his home and studio in Berkeley were viewed.

Crossing the bay to San Francisco, the group visited Mr. Yacoubian, an Asyrian painter, who is now doing scenes from Hamlet as well as his own interpretations of Hamlet.

Other places of interest visited included a San Francisco art shop where some of Brother Cornelius' works are on display, the DeYoung Museum in Golden Gate Park, and the Palace Legion of Honor.

State Civil Service Board Announces Examination Dates

SACRAMENTO, April 28.—Six civil service examinations were announced this week by the State Personnel Board at Sacramento.

Included in this group are: Associate Architectural Draftsman, $215; Senior Architectural Draftsman, $260; Administrative Assistant, $300; Traffic Safety Education supervisor, $225, and Hospital Attendant, $85.

Examinations will be held on May 14 and applications must be in by May 7. Bulletins and applications can be secured from the State Personnel board offices in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento.

Gonzaga Debaters to Argue Here Sunday Evening

Northern Team Makes Longest Tour in School History

SPOKANE, April 28.—A trio of Gonzaga university debaters left Spokane last Saturday for a 4,000-mile tour of Pacific colleges and universities. It is the longest debate trip on Gonzaga records.

The touring debaters will meet the Saint Mary's varsity Sunday.

Don Dirstine, student debate manager; Bill Royce and Tom Curran, president of the debating society, are making the tour. The trio has participated in some 30 contests this season. Dirstine and Royce are sophomores; Curran, a junior. All are prominent in campus life.

Itinerary

Their itinerary follows: Northwest Nazarene college, Nampa, Ida., April 23; Utah State, Logan, and University of Utah, Salt Lake City, April 25; California Tech, Pasadena, Calif., April 27; University of California at Los Angeles, April 28; Loyola University, Los Angeles, April 29; Saint Mary's College, May 1; Santa Clara university, Santa Clara, Calif., May 2; College of the Pacific, Stockton, Calif., May 3, and Seattle college, May 6. Others are tentatively scheduled.

The team will debate a variety of questions, including the national intercollegiate issue this year on compulsory arbitration.

New Catalogue To Appear Next Week

Department Added, Several Other Changes Made

Addition of a department and changes in courses of study in others will be featured in the new edition of the college catalogue to appear late next week.

Differing in many respects from the old catalogue, the new number will show a complete reorganization of the political science department, particularly in the upper division. Whereas all courses were formerly of two units, each is now a three-unit course.

Political science 113, the American political theory, and 114, general history of political thought, are two additions made in the upper division.

New Journalism Department

Largest and most important change in the new catalogue is the announcement of the new department of journalism, featuring 12 courses.

Important changes have been made in upper division public speaking courses. Under the new requirements students engaged in forensics must take 166a and b, varsity debating for juniors, and 167 a and b, varsity debating for seniors. These are one-unit courses.

Under the direction of the art department, a new course in architecture, 116 a and b, architectural design and rendering, is announced in the catalogue.

Changes in Economics

Slight changes were made in wording of studies in investment, labor economics, and advanced accounting, in the School of Economics and Business Administration.

Stressing special work in paleontology, Geology 8, a three-unit course in the geology department, has also been added to the new book.

History 198a-198b, special studies for undergraduate students, has been omitted from that department. Special permission must now be acquired to take this course.

Changes in the unit value of two upper division courses are made.

Contained at the close of the catalogue is descriptive information concerning improved transportation facilities between the college and the bay region. A map drawn by Joseph Kennedy '35 illustrates this facility.

Several clarifications have been made in the section dealing with faculty regulations.

USC Graduate Work Compared with UC Requirements

Round table discussions comparing graduate work toward a teacher's certificate at the University of California and Southern California were the highlight of the last meeting of the Saint Mary's College Teachers association.

Principal speaker at the meeting was Elwood Lang '35, who spoke on the work at the southern institution. Lang is teaching at Yreka high school. He is famed as a former basketball star at college. George Canrinus, former footballer now teaching at Crockett, may speak at the final meeting of the association.

Dramatics Society Sponsors First Play Tournament

UNIVERSITY OF SANTA CLARA, April

Sponsoring the first one-act play tournament in Santa Clara's history, the Clay M. Greene players on the evening of April 27 presented in the theatre four campus organizations in a competition of dramatic talent.

The competing groups, directed by four student dramatists, were the freshman and sophomore classes, the day scholars, and the engineering society.

Judges for the contest were William B. McCoard, professor of speech at San Jose state college; Frank Saunders, vice-principal of Santa Clara high school, and the Reverend Edward Shipsey, S.J., professor of English here.

HIGHLIGHTS of SCIENCE

By Boyd Judd

When high speed electrons impinge upon a metal—usually a heavy metal, like tungsten—a peculiar kind of radiation is emitted. This fact was first discovered in 1815 by Wilhelm Konrad von Rontgen, a German physicist, who later became professor of physics at the University of Wurzberg. In view of the uncertainty existing as to the nature of the rays, he called them x-rays.

Whenever scientists attempt to explain the nature of any kind of radiation, they think of radiation in general as being transmitted by waves. Then they proceed to describe the waves. X-rays may be described as having a very short wave-length. Radio waves may be 3,000 feet long, and ordinarily light waves are rather short—about one fifty-thousandths of an inch. X-ray waves are only a trillionth of an inch long. To produce them in the laboratory, physicists must make use of a glass tube, called a discharge tube, from which all but a tiny fraction of the air has been removed. At one end of the tube there is a filament which, when heated by a separate electric circuit, produces millions of tiny electrified particles, called electrons. These particles are pulled by the electric voltage to the other side of the tube, where they hit a metal target and produce x-rays.

The higher the voltage applied to the tube, the faster the electrons move—and correspondingly more powerful are the x-rays emitted. That is, the x-rays produced by the high voltages have more power to penetrate thick steel or the human body.

For some time after Rontgen's discovery scientists were satisfied with comparatively small voltages for the production of x-rays. 50,000 volts, which is sufficient for producing rays that are capable of photographing the bones of the human body, seemed dangerously high. About seven years ago, scientists stepped the voltage up to 300,000 volts—sufficiently high for rays capable of penetrating four inches of steel. Just recently, x-rays were produced by a voltage slightly exceeding two million volts.

Supervoltage x-rays are used in the detection of flaws in steel joints in huge construction jobs. To make the flume pipes of Boulder Dam, huge sections of steel pipe three inches thick were used. They were welded together into a single pipe big enough for a locomotive to run through. Every single inch of these joints was radiographed by high-powered x-rays. Another application of these rays is in the testing of all important steel castings used for the gun mounts on the battleships of Uncle Sam's Navy.

College Pictures Are Financial Success

Studios to Produce From Two to Six Campus Films

The college campus today is providing motion pictures with one of their greatest sources of stories.

Every studio in Hollywood is busy with plans to make from two to six pictures built around college life during the coming year. The only other single locale to provide more sources of pictures is the west.

Paramount has signed Hank Luisetti, Stanford basketball star, for its campus series. His first picture will be "Campus Confessions."

Due to Two Factors

The trend to college pictures is due to two factors, producers say. In the first place, the series of college musicals of which "College Swing" is the latest, has been highly successful. In the second place, pictures built around college life will offer a contrast on the programs which include such epics as "The Texans," "Men with Wings," "Union Pacific," "If I Were King," and "Spawn of the North."

College pictures are needed to lighten the heavy drain of epic productions, said Raoul Walsh, director of "College Swing."

"We have found that the college campus offers possibilities for lightness and humor. Collegians take life easily and, aside from their studies, are imbued with a nonchalance that is captivating. So far as I know, no college picture has ever failed to make money."

Santa Clara Block Organization Presents 'Bronkitis'

UNIVERSITY OF SANTA CLARA, April 29.—Reviving a formerly traditional show not staged for the past few years, the Block SC club presented "Bronkitis," an original comedy, last night in the university auditorium.

The first two scenes of the show were chiefly comedy while the last scene featured such specialties as a swing band, a waiter's quartet, and "ballet numbers" by some of the prominent Bronco football stars.

Spring Quarterly Appears This Week

California, Stanford, Saint Mary's Faculty Members Represented

Speeches of the constitution academy day speakers, a literary criticism, an article on Franciscan education, a number of poems, a discussion of the constitution of Ireland, and an article on Honolulu comprise the spring edition of the Moraga Quarterly which appeared on the campus Wednesday.

Professor James L. Hagerty, dean of the School of Arts and Letters, is represented by his paper read at the sesquicentennial of the constitution on February 22, "Upon This Rock."

"Washington and the Constitution," the address given by Eugene I. McCormac, University of California faculty member, is presented, as is the speech of Stanford university's Edgar E. Robinson. The title of Robinson's speech, "The Strength of Leadership."

"Honolulu Lei" by Ruth Burnham Tash, deals with the beauties of the Hawaiian islands. Robert L. Dohrman contributes a critical literary article, "The Importance of William Cobbett."

Brother Leo's contribution for this edition is entitled, "Education and the Franciscan Spirit." William R. Lowery presents "Some Thoughts on the Constitution of Ireland."

H. D. B. Soule's "Saint Mary's Revisited" and "Ignatius of Antioch"; Brother V. Leo's "A Little Child Lost," and Eustace J. Maguire's "Transmutation" complete the spring number of the quarterly.

Two Articles on Catholic Action Feature Brick Pile Edition

Catholic Action plays an important part in the April edition of the Brickpile, with two articles on the subject, one by Professor James L. Hagerty, and the other by Senior Paul Alston.

Professor Hagerty's article, "The Idea of Action," explains the theory of Catholic action and what part the graduate of a Catholic college must take in this work. Alston's article, "The Idea at Work," gives an instance of the theory of Catholic Action put into practice.

This final issue of the student literary magazine will make its appearance on the campus either today or Monday, Editor Paul Johnson said.

Also featured in the magazine is an article by Ray J. Desimone, "What a System," in which he debunks one of the "pet" pedagogical theories continually being put into practice, the honor system. He gives several reasons why this system is a failure.

The only short story, "Fated Vigil," is contributed by William Spehar, a new writer for the Brickpile.

The picturesque tale of the Moragas is continued with William Glackin's "Feud—1870 Style," in which he portrays an exciting event in the history of the Moraga valley.

"Sailor from Saint Mary's" by Charles Carroll and Alan Clarke deals with Joe McAleese, an alumnus, and his experiences in yachting.

The new issue features two book reviews on leading books of the day, "Assignment in Utopia," by Eugene Lyons and "The Return to Religion" by H. C. Link.

Jack Reilley's regular column, "It's This Way," comments on an article published in the Monitor, official organ of the archdiocese, in regard to the work done by the Brothers.

Summing up the activities of their four years at the college, Brother Albert, president of the college, delivers a final message to the seniors in his article, "To the Class of 1938."

Brother V. Leo contributes a poem in the April number, "Tamalpais Dreams."

In the Editor's Forum, Johnson remarks upon the accomplishments of the diamond jubilee year, and concludes with the assurance that the Brickpile will definitely be continued next semester.

Sacred Heart Grads To Attend Reunion

Graduates of the 1920 class of Sacred Heart college, San Francisco, will picnic at their 17th annual class reunion, next Sunday at Niles.

George R. Reilly is chairman of the arrangements committee.

Reilly has been selected as the orator for the occasion, his subject being "Service of Young Men in Public Life."

A baseball game will be held between the married men and the single men, Joseph Riccomi, director of athletics, announced.

The picnic will end with an evening banquet in the resort.

"3 Rousing Cheers" Autobiography, Added to Library

"Three Rousing Cheers," an autobiography of Elisabeth Jordan, leads the new books added to the Saint Mary's library this week.

Others are "The Diary of a Country Priest" by Bernanos Georges and "Francisco Franco" by Joaquin Arraras gives the life of General Franco.

"Does Life Matter for Me?" is written by C. C. Martindale. "The Rocky Road To Dublin" by Seumas MacManus gives life in Ireland in an autobiography.

"Pius XI" by Lillian Brown-Olf tells of the life of this pope. "From These Roots" by Mary Colum is a literary

Knights to Picnic Tomorrow at Tilden Park

Council Commended by Supreme Secretary of Organization

The annual picnic of Saint Mary's Knights of Columbus will be held tomorrow afternoon in Tilden Regional Park in the Berkeley hills.

George Bordenheier, Bernard McDonald and George Fernandes comprise the committee which has completed all arrangements for the annual outing. Some twenty-five members of the council will attend.

Delegates Selected

Grand Knight Bill Dooms and past Grand Knight Vic Wilkiemeyer were elected delegates to the May 8 state convention at Santa Monica, at a special meeting on Friday. Herschel Smyth and Henry Nuetzel were chosen as alternates.

A letter of commendation was received by the local council this week from William J. McGinley, Supreme Secretary, congratulating the group on its excellent work during the past year as described in the report of Special Agent Robert A. MacKenzie who visited the campus recently.

Associated Students Are Wise, Adopt New and More Elastic Constitution

WISE were the associated students this week when they voted to be guided henceforth by a new and more elastic student body constitution.

True, no radical changes will become effective as a result of the acceptance of the new constitution. However, the student body now has a constitution which is practical.

The balance of power lies in the executive council, which must meet regularly every week. This means, for example, whenever there is a doubt concerning a student body activity, it can be settled definitely within seven days.

Too, minor sports are recognized and a permanent program is established. Although the board of athletic control will appoint the minor sports director, the student legislative council will appoint the manager of each minor sport, thus still retaining a "say" in minor sports. And after three years of competition, each minor sports athlete shall receive a sweater.

Under the new constitution, the Block SM society shall determine the varsity sweater. However, an athlete who has fulfilled all requirements on the athletic field or court shall receive his award whether or not he desires to become a member of the honor society.

Lastly, only upper division men are allowed to run for a student body office. Under the old constitution this point was not clear and a member of the lower division at times was able to run in certain incidents.

Hence, wise were the associated students this week!

Let's Give a Toast to the Fighting Phoenix and Coach Earl Sheely—Our "Champs"

ANOTHER baseball season has been ended by the Saint Mary's Phoenix, and this year the Moraga nine failed by the narrowest of margins to bring to the campus the intercollegiate conference pennant.

Although they played more than 30 games, the Phoenix dropped only five. Each of the five conference games lost could have been won had the "breaks" sided with the Phoenix.

California whipped Saint Mary's twice. Playing on their home diamond before a friendly crowd, the Bears always have the advantage over the Moragans. Stanford captured one game of the annual series by one run in the last inning. Once again it was just one of those things. Then in Los Angeles last week, home umpires aided USC to win on Thursday. On Friday the Phoenix built up a 5-to-0 lead but one error proved costly.

That the Phoenix failed to win the championship was no fault of Coach Earl Sheely. One of the greatest first basemen of his day, Sheely today is recognized as one of the leading collegiate diamond mentors in the country. He has the respect and admiration of not only his players but also of all Saint Mary's fans and foes.

Because the Phoenix were fighters, let's give a toast to them and to the Earl of Moraga, Sheely—all champions in the eyes of Saint Mary's.

To Be Discussed Tomorrow

Comment & Opinion

NOW that the ASSMC officers have been elected for the coming year, we can sit back and watch the successful candidates attempt to keep their campaign promises. The old excuse of insufficient funds will no longer be on hand to get them out of ticklish situations. Faced with the prospect of handling one of the best filled treasuries in ASSMC history, the newly elected men must produce an efficient, completely satisfactory administration. They have no other alternative.

RIVALRY between day students and boarders has long been a source of ill-feeling on the campus. Each year at class elections groups of day students and boarders have attempted to organize the rival factions so that a clean sweep of all class offices, including positions on the executive council, would be possible.

This year faction leaders once again tried to control enough votes to guarantee a complete shutout of the opposition, but results of the election show that democratic principles prevailed over partisan politics. To the day students went one class office and one position on the executive council, a representation that is in keeping with their numbers.

The sophomore class is to be congratulated upon its refusal to deny representation to a minority group. If the junior and freshman classes follow the lead of the sophomores, much of the ill-feeling that has prevailed here for the past several years will be eliminated.

National Air Mail Week to Be Held May 15 to 21

MAY 15-21 has been set aside for the observance of National Air Mail Week. The purpose of the week is to acquaint the public with the progress made since the inauguration of air mail service twenty years ago. The goal of the week is an air mail letter a day from each citizen.

Saint Mary's students may be inclined to look upon National Air Mail Week as just another period in the long list of days that are set aside for the observance of some unimportant event.

Yet, through air mail, every student of Saint Mary's residing in the United States can communicate with his home within a twenty-four hour period, and in many cases receive an answer the same day.

From an average speed of 80 miles per hour in 1918, mail planes have increased their speed to an average of 226 miles per hour. Progress has not been confined to speed alone, but has extended to every branch of air mail transportation.

The record of progress and service established by the Air Mail Service since its inception a short twenty years ago is one that is worthy of our recognition. Because of that record National Air Mail Week is worthy of our support.

To Seniors

The following advice is for those anticipating graduation: The world is all wet; don't burn yourself out trying to set it on fire.

Simple Sniff

Will fell down the elevator—
Wasn't found till six days later,
Then the neighbors sniffed, "Gee whizz!
What a spoiled child Willie is!"

Three Men on a Horse

All of us argue at times and two professors of English are no exceptions. It seems that two professors could not settle an argument and hoping to end their differences amicably and promptly, they appealed to Mr. Scrambled-Brain, the head of their department.

"Tell us, Mr. Scrambled-B," they asked, "which was first . . . Omar Khayyam or Goeffrey Chaucer?"

"I'm sorry, boys," said the wise old man, "I gave up racing years ago."

Just Clean Humor

Those two famous Mexican tramps, Juan and Two, finally arrived at a wishing well after a long day's journey.

"Here's where I lose ground," said Juan tramp as he started to wish.

Keep yours pores open and we will come back and see you at this same time next week.

Outlooks and Insights

"I ARGUED and argued with him," declared the irate and virtuous lady in a certain story, "but he just wouldn't budge an inch. The man is as stubborn as a mule."

Use All Gently

Many of us mere men possess a copious plenty of mulish characteristics, and the good lady's husband, who "wouldn't budge an inch," may be accepted as a fair example of our helpless and hopeless sex; but, all the same, it is very probable that some other lady could have brought him to see the light. His wife—it must be so, for she said so herself—"argued and argued with him." Right there, I think, is the seat of the trouble.

Members of the superior sex, with all their feminine and even angelic illumination, really ought to know better; yet some of them think that they can win a man to a course of action simply by reasoning with him. In a good many cases they would stand a better chance by looking their prettiest, or giving him something good to eat, or—and this very especially!—simply by letting him alone.

Most of our opinions are in part rooted in feeling; and, as John Stuart Mill sagely points out, an opinion that is rooted in feeling grows the stronger, rather than the weaker, by having arguments piled up to contradict it.

To be right does not necessarily mean to be persuasive. To be argumentative does not mean to be persuasive. If I am going to root out one of your opinions I obviously must get at its roots. My procedure must be radical. And if your opinion is mainly rooted in feeling, in emotion, I am wasting my time when I try to show you how absurd your opinion is, or how illogical, or how inconsistent, or how at variance with facts. I may silence you, indeed, but I cannot convince you, until I get at the roots of your opinion.

THE Most Reverend Duane G. Hunt, consecrated Bishop of Salt Lake last October, is the twelfth convert to the Catholic Church raised to the episcopal office in the United States. Here are the others:

Convert Bishops

The Most Reverend Samuel Eccleston, fifth Archbishop of Baltimore. Originally an Episcopalian, he entered the Catholic Church in 1809, was appointed Archbishop in 1834 and died in 1851.

The Most Reverend James Roosevelt Bayley, eighth Archbishop of Baltimore. Leaving the Episcopal clergy, he was received into the Catholic Church at Rome in 1842. Eleven years later he became Bishop of Newark and in 1872 Archbishop of Baltimore. Death terminated his tenure of five years.

The Most Reverend James Frederic Wood, first Archbishop of Philadelphia. This Unitarian became a Catholic in 1836, Bishop of Philadelphia in 1857 and Archbishop in 1875. He died in 1883.

The Right Reverend William Tyler, Bishop of Hartford from 1884 to 1849. An Episcopalian, he turned Catholic when sixteen years old in 1822. The entire family joined the Church. He died in 1849.

The Right Reverend Josue M. Young, Bishop of Erie, Pennsylvania from 1854 to 1866. A former Congregationalist, he was baptized in 1828.

The Right Reverend Sylvester Horton Rosecrans, like his brother, the noted Civil War commander, was a convert from Episcopalianism. He was made Auxiliary Bishop of Cincinnati in 1862 and Bishop of Columbus in 1868. He died ten years later.

The Right Reverend Thomas Andrew Becker, sixth Bishop of Savannah. Son of a German Protestant family, he embraced Catholicity in young manhood, was Bishop of Wilmington in 1868 and of Savannah in 1886. He died in 1899 aged 67.

The Right Reverend Richard Gilmour, second Bishop of Cleveland, from 1872 to 1891. He came into the Church from Presbyterianism in 1842.

The Right Reverend Edgar P. Wadhams, first Bishop of Ogdensburg, was consecrated Bishop and died in the same year as Bishop Gilmour. Formerly he had been an Episcopal deacon.

The Right Reverend Alfred A. Curtis, the successor of another convert, Bishop Becker, in the see of Wilmington. A clergyman of the Church of England, he was received into the Catholic faith by Cardinal Newman in 1872. He died in 1908.

The Most Reverend James Hubert Blenk, Archbishop of New Orleans from 1906 to 1917. He had previously been Bishop of Puerto Rico (1899-1906).

The Bystander

By Bill Glackin

McGillicuddy went "Ulp," and made a face.

"Stop that," said the Bystander. "Haven't you got any manners?"

"Aw, lay off, willya?" said McG. "I can't help it. I'm always that way after lunch, usually. It's that . . ."

"Stop!" said the Bystander. It was almost a shout. "You know we aren't allowed to mention—well, you know." And he leaned over and whispered a four-letter word into the big freshman's ear.

McGillicuddy got impatient. "Oh, I know," he said. "It's Bad Policy, or Bad Publicity, or Bad Something-or-other, to complain about—(the Bystander held up his hand)—about stuff like that. But something's gotta be done around here. The—the you-know-what is getting awful. Even Cassady's starting to complain."

The Bystander started. He'd known there was wide discontent about Certain Things around school, but he had no idea that things had come to such a head. Uncle Joe Cassady complaining!

McGillicuddy was wound up. "Now take those st---ed p----ers," he said. (The Bystander refused, so McGillicuddy took them back.) "A lot of people I know have got awfully, awfully indisposed because of those things." (We know that doesn't sound like McGillicuddy. As a matter of fact, those aren't his exact words. His weren't exactly repeatable.)

"I know," said the Bystander. "They're pretty bad, all right. But what can you do? Go to Charley?"

"No," said McG. "That wouldn't do any good. He's really not to blame."

The Bystander was rather surprised, and said as much. People usually blamed Charley for such things without a second thought.

"No," the sage of the frosh said darkly, "it goes a little farther up than that." And that's all he would say. When the Bystander pressed him to explain his statement, he muttered something about spies and went off in a hurry, peering apprehensively around him as he went, as if he were afraid he'd said too much. It was all very mystifying.

(Off Campus Readers: "You're telling us?"

The Bystander: "Sorry, folks. I'll stick to infield grounders from now on.")

Moraga Musings

IN a little more than two weeks one of the greatest collections of campus characters ever to attend Saint Mary's will depart. Gone will be the "boys" who have been such excellent sources of copy for the past four years.

Men such as "Jesse James" Mylot, Bill "Spit-Ball" Lawlor, "Red-Hot" Reilley, "Shaggy" Orth, "WCTU" Smythe, "Stay-at-Home" Tillotson, "Get-Off-Your-Knees" Franey and Reginald "Round Man" Hilken will be difficult to replace.

No longer will the name of T. Wyman Riley, better known from coast to coast as "Jake Goldberg," resound about Center hall. Gone will be Gene "Mad-Dog" Sullivan, "Little Thug" McIntyre, and "Rattlesnake" McLean.

Some of the gloom that surounds the Muser is lifted by the fact that people claim that there is to be a traditional affair known as the senior ball tomorrow night. Present plans call for the Muser's operatives to take action snapshots of the characters at work.

Replacements for next year are none too promising, although such men as "Dr. Jekyll" Dowd, "Colonel" Bloodgood, "Diamond" Jim Brady and Zach Montgomery are not to be overlooked.

Did You Know That . . .

One of the boys who ran for an ASSMC office was setting them up during the past week.

There are a couple of local Don Juans who have made a habit of cornering the beauty market every time that affairs similar to the Press convention are held here.

A good time was had by all who attended the Wells-Fargo dance of the freshman class, and that some people had better times than other people—at least, that's what the other people tell them.

Jim Brady, campaign manager for Jack Williams, was more in evidence than any other horn blower.

Ratings made on the basis of performances at the jig last Saturday night make a couple of local yokels odds-on favorites to win the Harris trophy tomorrow night.
